

Selected Tweets for 'Public Drinking in the Nineteenth Century'

23-24 February 2014

RT @philmellows: @UoBrisDrinkConf I done a blog - Drinking, Sex and Geometry: <http://t.co/NQGYFrdPDN>
RT @GuyWoolnough: the paper I gave at Bristol 19c drink conf @UoBrisDrinkConf #uobrisdrinkconf <http://t.co/mhjVqa2QJw>
RT @Jamesqnicholls: @UoBrisDrinkConf @demon_drink It was a great conference: well done! #uobrisdrinkconf
RT @JamesKneale: On Mortimer Granville's old street in Bristol. The final insult? <http://t.co/NljJVvlpB>
Had the most amazing time yesterday. Thanks to all the speakers and delegates for making it so inspiring. #uobrisdrinkconf

22 February 2014

RT @JJBuckmaster: @JamesKneale thank you, how kind! Thankfully voice held. Fantastic day of papers @UoBrisDrinkConf on a broad range of booze
RT @Fergalatron: What a brilliant conference @UoBrisDrinkConf great papers and so well organised thanks
@pamplemoussepam x
RT @JJBuckmaster: Really enjoyed Ed Lilley's lucid commentary & engaging images of beer drinking in modernist art @UoBrisDrinkConf
RT @StanKeaton: Enjoying the tweets from #uobrisdrinkconf, and hoping that the papers will be available for those of us who couldn't make it
RT @GuyWoolnough: The Temperance Movement good to hear about it, too often neglected. #uobrisdrinkconf
RT @JamesKneale: Guzzle and Gobble: drinking and eating clowns 'locked in a duel of drink and sausages' (may have transcribed that wrong) #â€
Mackenney - interesting comments on the term 'effusions'
Mackenney on drinking reputations and truths of working class romantic poets #uobrisdrinkconf
"@JamesKneale: Got away without singing" so far...
McAllister- temperance medals had bars to display the wearer's number of dry years
RT @JamesKneale: Ominous reminder of Temperance songs reminds me of @undercontrol13
Feeding the public drinkers #uobrisdrinkconf <http://t.co/zotqghEELW>
McAllister - 13 temperance hotels in Bristol
RT @JamesKneale: I have to agree with @demon_drink's call for a conference on (historical) drink statistics!
RT @JamesKneale: Carnegie was also prepared to give Â£10k to a municipality which would adopt Gothenburg. Interesting! #uobrisdrinkconf
RT @demon_drink: @UoBrisDrinkConf @dbeckingham fascinating account of Swedish decoupling of sale of alcohol from profit in 1865 - disintereâ€
RT @demon_drink: @uobrisdrinkconf @dbeckingham I like a paper where conclusions are highlighted at the outset! #goodpractice
RT @JamesKneale: David Beckingham now on public drinking and public control - disinterested management, travelling ideas, and 'the public' â€
RT @LauraMMair: It sounds like @GuyWoolnough paper @UoBrisDrinkConf was fascinating- I'm sad to have missed it #uobrisdrinkconf
RT @demon_drink: @GuyWoolnough @UoBrisDrinkConf great example of detailed case study research throwing light on major issues in temperance/â€
RT @DanMalleck: Geographies of police decisions? Five miles too far to drag a noisy drunk so he gets away with it? #uobrisdrinkconf
RT @JamesKneale: The policing of drunkenness in Victn Kirby Stephen (& Kirby Lonsdale). @GuyWoolnough on this Pennine hotspot of temperanceâ€
RT @JJBuckmaster: Interesting comment by Paul Jennings @UoBrisDrinkConf on modern romanticisation of gin palaces. Packaging of @HendricksGiâ€
RT @JamesKneale: Earnshaw on Zola's L'Assommoir - amazing photos of 1879 production of the novel (as temperance piece) #uobrisdrinkconf
RT @JamesKneale: Steve Earnshaw: Mary Thompson's recidivism didn't fit temperance narratives - could not explain why she chose to drink #â€
Steve Earnshaw now on the existential alcoholic - Jack London's portrayal relating to 19C writers #uobrisdrinkconf
RT @demon_drink: @UoBrisDrinkConf Paul Jennings on the gulf between early gin shops and beer house - disincentive to stay like fast food joâ€
RT @JamesKneale: Paul Jennings on late Victn examples of 'apotheosis' of this gin palace style: Salisbury, Princess Louise in London #uobriâ€
Great temperance picture by Robert Summers featuring Mrs Wild and Mrs Loose #uobrisdrinkconf
Wonderful paper Paul Jennings. Victorian term 'Perpendicular drinking' to encourage consumption continues to be used by publicans today