

soapbox science

The Podium, Broadmead
near BHS!

Bristol 2016

Female scientists take to the streets to share their science from a soapbox!

12 speakers!

Including our very own

Dr Susan Hooper

**&

Dr Catherine Back

16th JULY 2016

12-3 pm

Everyone is welcome, please come along,
learn and enjoy!

Follow us on Twitter:

@SoapboxBristol, @SoapboxScience

University of
BRISTOL

Science & Technology Facilities Council

Speakers

Ms Sam Ardin, University of Bristol,

“The Brilliance of Bees!”

Dr Denize Atan, University of Bristol,

“An eye on the brain”

Dr Catherine Back, University of Bristol,

“Sticky bacteria: The science behind how bacteria attach to us and to each other, and why this is important in disease”

Dr Sarah Bailey, University of Bath,

“Is stress killing your brain cells”

Ms Alice Banks, University of Bristol,

“The Magic of Mushrooms: could mushrooms be the solution to antibiotic resistance?”

Dr Sarah Hart, Keele University,

“Weighty matters: why weighing molecules is important”

Dr Susan Hooper, University of Bristol,

“Teeth for life? – Limit the acid!”

Dr Caroline Morris, University of Bristol,

“Designing vaccine delivery systems using synthetic biology”

Dr Rachel Moseley, Bournemouth University,

“Amazing brains and the autism spectrum”

Ms Maddy Nichols, University of Bristol,

“The small scale”

Ms Emma Sackville, University of Bath,

“From Water to Wind Turbines: A look at how chemistry can help with the challenges of sustainability”

Find out more about our speakers here: soapboxscience.org/?page\_id=2778

