Skills for the Future Summer School:

No-show & Cancellation Policy

It is expected that registrants will act in good faith. If a participant fails to cancel their place three full days before a course they will be sent a notification. If a participant fails to attend three sessions in an academic year, they will be blocked from attending any further training sessions that year. It is recognised that unexpected events do occur and that candidates should contact the training provider at the earliest opportunity to let staff know.

Registration
Participants must register to attend a workshop. Registration closes 72 hours prior to the workshop.

Should a participant seek to take part in a workshop without having pre-registered, their participation in the session will be at the facilitator’s discretion, space permitting.

Late arrival
Participants arriving more than half an hour after a session has started will not be allowed to attend, as they will have missed the foundational elements of the session.

Cancellations
Participants are required to cancel their place on a course at least three full working days prior to the start time of the course.

Non or partial attendance
Partial attendance, including arriving late, leaving early, or coming and going throughout the session will be treated as non-attendance.
