Please note

This information guide should be read in conjunction with the EFM Undergraduate Handbook which can be downloaded from <https://www.bris.ac.uk/efm/currentstudents/undergraduate/handbook.pdf>. The EFM Undergraduate Handbook holds detailed information relating to:

- Illness and Absence;
- Plagiarism and Cheating;
- Giving a Tutorial Class Presentation;
- Writing Assessments and
- A wealth of other information also of relevance to students studying with us from overseas.

The School of Economics, Finance and Management

The School of Economics, Finance and Management (EFM) consists of three departments: Economics, Accounting and Finance, and Management.

All departments within the School have international reputations both for their teaching and their research.

High Quality Teaching

Students rate the quality of our teaching as among the best in the country. Classes are given by leading researchers and dedicated teaching staff who incorporate the very latest ideas into their teaching. The result is a lively and challenging educational environment, and one which may be different to what you are used to in your home country.

Contact Hours

As an Erasmus student at the School of Economics, Finance and Management you will benefit from excellent teaching and learning support. We provide small-group classes as well as large-group lectures, clinics and exercise lectures. The amount and nature of contact time varies between units, depending upon what works best for different subjects. Feedback on your progress is provided throughout the year and help is always there when you need it.

Blackboard

All undergraduate units in the School use an online learning environment called Blackboard, from which you can download course materials, practice questions online and make use of discussion boards. Blackboard also helps you keep track of unit announcements, communicate with other students taking the unit, receive news about the latest developments in the unit, and review lectures via downloadable materials or via Re/Play media files.

Erasmus and Study Abroad students are enrolled onto the Erasmus and Study Abroad Blackboard portal upon arrival. This site contains useful documents (such as this Information Guide) and may be used by the Senior Student Administrator to contact you with important announcements etc.

University of Bristol email account - keeping you informed

The School will keep in touch with you throughout the year with important information and announcements.

Once you are enrolled on at least one EFM unit, only your University of Bristol emails will be used when corresponding with or contacting you, so please ensure you check your Bristol email regularly.

Please use only your Bristol email in all correspondence with the Senior Student Administrator and with Global Opportunities to avoid confusion and missed communications.

University of Bristol and School Registrations

The Global Opportunities Team will organise University of Bristol registration for Incoming Erasmus students. Details and dates of arrival and registration can be found in their Study Abroad guide which can be downloaded from this page: <https://www.bristol.ac.uk/global-opportunities/at-bristol/study-abroad-programmes/>

Erasmus students must also register individually with the School of Economics, Finance and Management.

Registration for the 2019-20 academic year will take place within Welcome Week (Week 0) commencing 23rd September 2019. The final date, time, venue, and individual appointments to discuss your unit choices, will be confirmed by email closer to the event.

Study spaces

Numerous study spaces for students are located across the University, both in the central precinct and in accommodation and social areas. The Study Space website <http://www.bristol.ac.uk/students/study-spaces> has full details and a downloadable map.

Personal Tutor in Economics, Finance and Management

The Personal Tutor for all Erasmus students in the School of Economics, Finance and Management is Dr Luis Correia. Dr Correia is usually available to discuss any matters with you, whether academic or personal, no matter how small or insignificant these might seem. You can also meet with the Senior Student Administrator at any time, or contact her via email.

Extenuating Circumstances

We hope that your time in the School will be a happy and productive experience. However, students at university can occasionally experience difficulties apart from academic problems, such as issues that involve health, financial or family circumstances. Where appropriate, your tutor can put you in touch with other members of School staff or with specialist advisors.

On rare occasions, illness or other types of problems may have a more detrimental effect on your academic work. If this happens you should contact the EFM Information Office or the EFM Erasmus Senior Student Administrator as soon as possible, to discuss Extenuating Circumstances or Self Certification. You can be assured that confidentiality will always be strictly observed.

Staff availability and Advice and Feedback Hours

All academic teaching staff have Advice and Feedback Hours when you can call in during term time to see them without prior appointment. The hours are posted on staff office doors and the EFM website <https://www.bris.ac.uk/efm/currentstudents/office-hours>

If you cannot see an academic member of staff during their Advice and Feedback Hours then you should contact them by email regarding your query and the possibility of arranging an alternative time to meet.

The Erasmus Senior Student Administrator is always available without an appointment in Room 1B7 of the Priory Road Complex or via the Information Office at 12 Priory Road. Please contact efim-erasmus@bristol.ac.uk or nina.bunton@bristol.ac.uk

The Academic year 2019-20

Unit choices

The Global Opportunities Team will coordinate all applications for Erasmus study, and will receive initial unit choices from students prior to registrations. Initial unit choices for EFM will be forwarded to the EFM Senior Student Administrator for Erasmus and Study Abroad programmes.

Unit choices lists

The Unit Catalogue can be found at <https://www.bris.ac.uk/unit-programme-catalogue/AboutUnits.jsa;jsessionid=21FD63C936851C8CD32D405EE0F8D623?ayrCode=18%2F19>

Each entry shows the following:

- The Year in which the unit is taught
 - The Teaching Block in which the unit is taught
 - The Unit Code
 - The Unit Title
 - The name of the Unit Director
 - Pre-requisite knowledge that is required.
- Several unit descriptions indicate the names of pre-requisite units that University of Bristol students would have already undertaken in their previous years' study.

We understand that Erasmus students will not have taken these units. However, this information indicates the knowledge that will be assumed and so will help students to make appropriate unit choices.

It is often useful to read the unit descriptions of the units which taught pre-requisite knowledge, in order to satisfy yourself that you have covered the materials in your previous studies.

Please choose your units carefully as some units involve a fair amount of quantitative skills, some require excellent reading and comprehension skills, and most higher level units presume good background knowledge.

- The University of Bristol Credit Points for each unit.
As Erasmus students, your ECTS will be halved e.g. a 20CP unit will be 10 ECTS
- The Summative Assessment for each unit
- The Alternative Assessment.
This form of assessment can only be taken by a certain category of students on Study Abroad programmes. Erasmus students do not qualify for Alternative Assessment
- Exclusions and Exceptions: please read this list when making your unit choices

Please see this link for the list of units now available for Erasmus students during 2019-20

<https://www.bristol.ac.uk/efm/courses/study-abroad-at-bristol/unit-choice-and-information/>

Please note that some units in the Unit Catalogue may not be available for study by Erasmus students.

Please make preliminary unit choices to put on your application form. Once your application has been processed, the Erasmus and Study Abroad Senior Student Administrator will be in touch with feedback on the units on your Learning Agreement, and final choices will be confirmed in September's Welcome Week.

Initial Unit Choices

The School will aim to enrol students on these initial unit choices, but due to a finite number of spaces available, enrolment is not totally guaranteed.

The Erasmus Senior Student Administrator will be in correspondence with students over the summer period to advise on whether students are registered on units, to advise on unit registration choices that might have lecture clashes, and to request new or additional unit choices if initial choices cannot be accommodated.

It is hoped that unit choices will be finalized by registration in September, and minimal changes will be required during the School registration and information sessions held in Welcome Week.

If you want to change any of your EFM units before you arrive please contact the EFM Senior Student Administrator via efim-erasmus@bristol.ac.uk or nina.bunton@bristol.ac.uk

Unit Choices from other Schools and Departments

Students should note that the School of Economics, Finance and Management cannot register you for units offered by other departments. If you would like to take a unit in another department, for example, units coded SPOL, SOCI, POLI, PHIL, or others around the University, you must register directly with the department offering the unit and ensure that the lecture times do not clash with your EFM lectures, attendance at which is compulsory.

Postgraduate units

The School of Economics, Finance and Management does not offer any Masters level units to Erasmus students.

Lecture attendance and tutorial registration

Attendance at EFM lectures is compulsory. Should any clash occur between the lectures of your different unit choices, a new unit choice may be required, either within EFM or with the School whose unit clashes with an EFM unit.

It is usually possible to change the time of an EFM tutorial as there can be several tutorial classes for each unit, but lecture times are fixed and cannot be changed.

Timetable

Online personalised student timetables will be available under the Timetable tab on the MyBristol portal once the student has registered. Access is via www.bristol.ac.uk/mybristol

Language Requirements

All courses are taught and assessed in English. Students who wish to study in the School of Economics, Finance and Management are expected to have attained the standards required of Profile B skill level. See <http://www.bristol.ac.uk/study/language-requirements/> for further details of this skill level.

Students with less than this level of language attainment will experience difficulties in studying and passing exams.

Language units available

Students may enrol on Learning English and Academic Development options in order to improve their English (reading/writing, listening/speaking) skills. You must register directly with CELFS to enrol on these units, and then advise the EFM Erasmus Administrator of your unit choices. Please see the CELFS website for further details and for up-to-date registration information

<http://www.bristol.ac.uk/english-language/study/current-students/open-units/>

Academic Listening and Speaking (LANG10007) 5 ECTS

An English-language unit specifically focussed on supporting you with academic listening and speaking.

Academic Reading and Writing (LANG10008) 5 ECTS

An English-language unit specifically focussed on supporting you with academic reading and writing.

Advanced English Language Studies (LANG14011) 10 ECTS

For post intermediate level students who wish to develop their competence in the analysis and communicative use of English.

These units are all credit-bearing and students must ensure they do not exceed their credit allocation when registering for these units.

European Credit Transfer Scheme (ECTS)

The ECTS has been implemented throughout Europe to facilitate the recognition of your work while you are at the University of Bristol.

Credits are awarded only when the course has been completed and all required examinations taken and/or coursework completed (both formative and summative).

Practical placements and optional courses, which do not form an integral part of study, do not receive academic recognition, and therefore cannot be awarded ECTS credits. Units bearing OCP also will not be awarded ECTS credits.

Remember

20 credit points at University of Bristol = 10 ECTS credits

Detailed descriptions of each unit can be found on the School's website

<http://www.bristol.ac.uk/efm/courses/undergraduate/units/>.

Unit Descriptions

Each unit description provides:

- a general description of the unit including required pre-requisite knowledge
- the unit's director, lecturers and tutors
- the unit's learning objectives
- the unit's teaching and assessment methods
- course texts
- credit point value
- teaching block

Students should note that mixing units from different years/departments may cause timetable clashes, particularly with lecture schedules. In this event, you will need to decide which unit to keep as it will not be possible to keep both/all units involved in the clash. You will be advised of any timetable clashes as soon as possible after registration in September.

Units and credit points

Each unit description includes the credit point (CP) value of the unit. Most units taught in EFM carry 20CP (=> 10 ECTS) but some are worth 10CP (=> 5 ECTS).

Full-year Erasmus students will be expected to study 120 University of Bristol credit points => 60 ECTS. Students registered for Teaching Block one only will be expected to study 60 UOB credit points which equates to 30 ECTS.

It is the student's responsibility to ensure that their unit choices are approved by their home university, and students must confirm that they are taking the correct number of credit points according to the student's home degree requirements.

Unit weighting

Full year students are advised to take an equal number of credit points per teaching block in order to have a balance timetable.

Pre-requisite knowledge

See individual unit entries on the Unit Catalogue for details of pre-requisite knowledge required to study on each unit.

Required reading

Suggested textbooks are included in the unit descriptions. Some lecturers will expect students to read everything on the list while others will expect students to make their own reading choices from an extensive list of possibilities.

If you are at all unsure about what reading you should be doing, please contact the relevant unit lecturer for assistance.

Open Units

The University operates an Open Units scheme to allow undergraduate students the opportunity to take units in subjects outside their main degree subject. Incoming Erasmus students can choose one or two units outside the School of Economics, Finance and Management, subject to approval from the student's home university.

Units offered by the School of Sociology, Politics and International Studies (SPAIS), School for Policy Studies, Centre for English Language and Foundation studies (CELFS), School of Mathematics, and the University of Bristol Law School may be particularly relevant to your chosen field of study.

A full list of Open Units is available on the University's online unit catalogue for 2019-20 at <https://www.bris.ac.uk/unit-programme-catalogue/Welcome.jsa>.

By clicking on the unit descriptions, you can find out the level of the unit, how many credit points it is worth and in which teaching block it is taught.

Please note that the lectures for your Open Unit must fit in with your EFM lecture timetable.

If there is a clash, you will not be permitted to take the Open Unit and you will have to choose an alternative. It is recommended that you have some reserves in mind.

If a lecture for your chosen unit clashes with an Economics tutorial class it is usually possible to move you into a different tutorial group once the whole timetable has been compiled.

Erasmus students from other Departments

Erasmus students from other departments who would like to take a unit within the School of Economics, Finance and Management are permitted to take our open unit EFIM10050 Principles of Economics.

Units of Study - Choices

The units of study offered to Erasmus students (which are correct at the time of publication but may be subject to change) in the School of Economics, Finance and Management for 2019-20 are listed below. Please note that, depending on staff availability, some of the options listed may not run in 2019-20 or may cover different material within the subject.

Please go to <https://www.bris.ac.uk/unit-programme-catalogue/AboutUnits.jsa;jsessionid=21FD63C936851C8CD32D405EE0F8D623?ayrCode=18%2F19> to access the Unit Catalogue. You can search on EFIM, ECON and ACCG codes for units run in this School.

Please note that some units in the Unit Catalogue may not be available for study by Erasmus students.

Please see this link for the list of units now available for Erasmus students during 2019-20

<https://www.bristol.ac.uk/efm/courses/study-abroad-at-bristol/unit-choice-and-information/>

Each unit has a Unit Director who usually does most of the lecturing. The associated tutorials will be shared with his/her colleagues in the School who have a specialist interest in the topics covered by the unit.

Teaching on all units is through a combination of regular lectures and a series of class tutorials/exercise classes.

We do not impose requirements on which units students should study. Students should make their unit choices in consultation with their home university and ensure that their choices are appropriate and worth a sufficient amount of credits. We would, however, advise students to think carefully and research thoroughly before choosing units, by

- Carefully reading the unit description;
- Checking the pre-requisite unit knowledge that will be assumed;
- Checking the past exam papers of pre-requisite units and
- For second and third EFM year units, watching the 'option briefing' presentations via the EFM Information Office Blackboard site.

Sometimes it is not possible to guarantee students their first choice of units as some options are over-subscribed or there may be timetable clashes. Timetable clashes usually occur when students take a mixture of different level units. We therefore suggest you make a reserve choice in case one of your preferred units is full. If at all possible the Erasmus Administrator will notify you of any timetable clashes before you arrive. The Erasmus Administrator will also discuss with each student their programme of study during the registration process.

Changes can only be made to unit enrolments during the first two weeks of term.

After this date, students can be removed from units but not enrolled on to new units. Students deciding to drop a unit later than Week 4 will have a mark of zero recorded on their transcript for that unit.

Students are advised to read the unit description and syllabus content carefully for each unit before making their selection, including those for any pre-requisite units as this prior knowledge will be assumed.

Important

You must be able to attend all lectures and attendance at tutorial classes and submitting required written work is compulsory. Failure to do so will mean credit points will not be awarded.

Assessment, examinations and marking

For each unit of study, Erasmus students are required to undertake both formative and summative assessment.

Formative assessment

Each unit may have a different type of formative assessment, such as tutorial discussions, class essays, presentations, short-answer questions, etc. All incoming Erasmus students do the same number of formative pieces of work during the term as Bristol students.

Summative assessment – Final grade

The final grade for each unit will be determined by the mark achieved in the summative assessment for that unit. This will usually either be an end-of-unit final exam, or a combination of exam and summative coursework.

NOTE: Summative coursework that contributes to your final grade is separate from formative coursework undertaken throughout the teaching block(s). Each unit description outlines the summative assessment requirements

Exam Periods

Summative Assessments take place in the January Exam Period for TB1 units and in the Summer Exam Period for TB2 units. You must ensure that you are available to attend all assessments held within the following exam periods:

January: Monday 13th January – Friday 24th January 2020

Summer: Monday 18th May – Friday 5th June 2020

All assigned work and examinations are written in English. Erasmus students sit the same exams as University of Bristol students and all papers are marked anonymously. All assessments are based on written work and there are no provisions for oral examinations within the School of Economics, Finance and Management.

Exam information

You should check your University of Bristol email account regularly for exam information. For all exams queries please see the Examinations Office website <http://www.bristol.ac.uk/directory/exams/>

Provisional examination timetable information will be available to view on www.bris.ac.uk/studentinfo towards the end of each teaching block.

The Examinations Office will send you an email when your timetable is available to view.

Prior to each exam period, the Erasmus and Study Abroad Senior Student Administrator for EFM will contact students with information on how to request permission to take a translation dictionary into your examinations. This permission will only be granted if English is not your first language and is only available to Erasmus and Study Abroad students.

Past Examination papers

Past exam papers are available to current students to download from the School's webpage: <https://www.bris.ac.uk/efm/currentstudents/examinations/pastpapers/>. Students may also refer to the papers prior to registration on a unit to ascertain whether the unit is suitable for them.

Plagiarism, Referencing and Cheating

Plagiarism is a serious academic offence.

Plagiarism is defined as the presentation of someone else's work as though it were your own. It can take several forms, including:

- Obtaining an essay, for example from the Internet or another provider, and submitting it as your own work either in part or in full;
- Stealing another student's work and submitting it as your own work or colluding with another student to produce work together;
- Copying, or electronically cutting and pasting, sections (i.e. a whole sentence or more) of someone else's work, without using quotation marks to clearly mark what is not yours;
- 'Borrowing' the structure of an argument from another writer and following this too closely, presenting it as your own, without acknowledgement

The penalties for plagiarism are severe.

If you are in any doubt at all about whether what you are doing constitutes plagiarism, don't do it. Ask a member of staff for guidance.

More information about plagiarism can be found both in the EFM UG handbook <https://www.bris.ac.uk/efm/currentstudents/undergraduate/handbook.pdf> and at <http://www.bristol.ac.uk/esu/studentlearning/plagiarism>

Referencing

There are no set rules for referencing, although the Harvard Referencing System is the most commonly used). The most critical thing is to acknowledge all arguments, ideas, facts, etc. which are not your own to ensure that you do not plagiarise other writers' work.

Cheating

It should be obvious what cheating is but if you are in any doubt you should ask the exam invigilator. A precise definition of cheating is given in section 2.9 of the University Examination Regulations (see below).

The University of Bristol may have different rules to your home university so make sure you know the rules! For example use of correction fluid or tape in exams is not allowed, all working must be done in the answer books, and no extra papers are permitted in the examination venues (whether taken in, or torn out of answer books)

If cheating in an exam is suspected, students can expect to be interviewed and their marks/grades may be jeopardised.

Examination Regulations can be found in the section Academic Matters (point 7) at <http://www.bristol.ac.uk/secretary/student-rules-regs/>.

Marking conventions

Both formative and summative work in Bristol is graded in one of two equivalent ways:

- A mark out of 100, expressed as a percentage
- A grade

The following equivalencies apply:

Percentage Range	UoB Grade
70 +	First
60 – 69	2:1
50 – 59	2:2
40 – 49	Third
Less than 40	Fail

The Faculty of Social Sciences and Law's Marking Criteria for First, Second and Third Year Units can be found under Guidelines and Policies at <https://www.bris.ac.uk/fssl/current-students/fssl-undergraduates/index.html>

Most written work, including the summer examinations, will normally be marked out of 100. Such a mark will correspond to a class in the Faculty's undergraduate degree classification i.e. a 1st, a 2.1 (upper second), a 2.2 (lower second), a 3rd, or a Fail.

Marking of Assessments and provision of transcripts

Summative assessments are marked and moderated. Once final marks have been agreed and published, a transcript of results will be prepared and sent to the Erasmus co-ordinators at each home university. A copy will also be sent to individual students if requested.

Any queries about transcripts should be directed to transcripts-fssl@bristol.ac.uk

Library and Computing Facilities

Arts and Social Sciences Library

Most of the texts you will need for your classes are housed in the Arts and Social Sciences Library which is the main University library and the largest academic library in the South West of England. It is situated in Tyndall Avenue, about a 5-minute walk from the School.

Opening times are given on the library's website (<http://www.bris.ac.uk/library>) and on the main door.

The library's website provides access to the library catalogue and other useful user information. If you have any serious problems getting books, you should report this to your class tutor.

For help or queries about central Library services contact:

E-Journals, e-books and databases

The University of Bristol Information Services Department pays a subscription to thousands of online journals making them free to students with a valid University of Bristol username and password. Many of the articles on class reading lists (especially recent articles) are available to download from this system, which saves a trip to the Library and photocopying charges.

The e-Journals catalogue can be found at <http://www.bristol.ac.uk/library/find/ejournals/>

The e-books information can be found at <http://www.bristol.ac.uk/library/find/ebooks/>

Specialised databases can be found at <http://www.bristol.ac.uk/library/find/databases/>
