The Promise

I,..... undertake that, as a graduate in Medicine of the University of Bristol, I will practise my profession to the best of my knowledge and ability with conscience and integrity. I will respect the secrets which are confided in me and maintain the utmost respect for human life. I will hold in the deepest respect the honourable traditions and obligations of the medical profession; even under threat, I will not use my medical knowledge contrary to the laws of humanity. Recognising what I have learnt from my teachers, I will myself pass on the art and science of medicine to others. I will work for the good of all persons whose health may be placed in my care and for the public wellbeing.
