

University of Bristol Statement about 'Beyond Anti-Semitism' Article

Earlier this year we received a complaint from the Campaign against Anti-Semitism which raised concerns about an article called 'Beyond Anti-Semitism' written by Dr Rebecca Gould, a Reader in Translation Studies and Comparative Literature in the School of Modern Languages, and published in 2011.

The University carefully and extensively reviewed Dr Gould's article and concluded that the article is not anti-Semitic and does not breach the proper bounds of freedom of speech and academic freedom. We will therefore be taking no further action in relation to this matter.

Both Dr Gould and the Campaign against Anti-Semitism have been informed of our findings.
