

"Pure is essential to the Cabot Institute because it helps us understand and map our strategic relationships - it ensures that we are working with and building from existing strengths."

Professor Rich Pancost, Director of the Cabot Institute

Pure

Showcase your research to a wider world

"Pure allows me to consolidate my research activities and outputs in one place, which makes it extremely easy to project an overview. I can use it to generate a CV, highlight the integration between my various research projects, or for other purposes."

Dr.Tamar Hodos, Reader in Mediterranean Archaeology

What is Pure?

---

Pure is the University of Bristol's research information system. It enables us to collect and publish information about our research, including outputs, projects and activities.

The system is user-friendly and intuitive and our support staff are always happy to help. Contact pure-support@bristol.ac.uk and let us know your support and training needs.

What can Pure do for me?

Pure gives academic staff and postgraduate researchers the opportunity to:

- Store and maintain research outputs and retrieve publication information from external sources
- View other research-related information including funded research projects and supervised postgraduate researchers
- Create personalised CVs
- Showcase a research portfolio on Explore Bristol Research or elsewhere on the University website

What should I put in Pure?

- Profile information
- Photo
- Publications and other outputs
- Research activities
- Indicators of esteem
- Impact
- Project descriptions
- ORCID

What is Explore Bristol Research?

---

The Explore Bristol Research web site is a publicly available searchable and browsable view of research related information drawing directly from records maintained in Pure.

The top menu lists all UoB information and the lower tabs collate all the information relevant to individual profiles.
