Our vision is that the Your Life, Your Care and Your Life, Beyond Care surveys become the national subjective well-being indicators for children in care and care leavers. If all local authorities did the surveys, both local and national decision-makers would better understand and be able to act on the experiences of children in care and care leavers.

By everyone using the Bright Spots measures across the country we can build a full national picture and benchmark how children and young people feel about their lives in different local authorities and in comparison to the general population, addressing the enduring variation in support young people continue to report.

We urge the Government to continue to promote the Bright Spots surveys to all local authorities and encourage authorities themselves to get involved.
