

Intellectual Property Revenue Allocation Form

This form should be completed by all contributors to a new invention or other form of intellectual property. Individual contributors must also complete a Due Diligence Form.

The University of Bristol asks researchers who contribute jointly to intellectual property to advise the University as to the:

- nature of contribution i.e. named inventor, contributor of know-how, author, facilitator, consultant etc.
- agreed proportion of exploitation income to which each individual/institution (internal or external) will be entitled from the net revenue payable to researchers under the University's revenue-sharing scheme (www.bris.ac.uk/research/ip/policy/royalty.html). In the event of any disagreement, the Division of Research & Enterprise Development and the Head of Department will act as arbitrators. In the absence of any instructions regarding apportionment, the University's default position will be to share all revenue due equally between named inventors.
