ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

I express my thanks to all those who in various ways have contributed to the production of this volume: the staff of the Bristol Record Office, the City Archivist, Mr. John Williams who helped to identify the Welsh place names, Miss Nora Hardwick who gave me assistance in the identification of all other place names and Miss Mary Morris who typed the manuscript.
EDITORIAL METHOD

The apprenticeship enrolments were written in Latin and have been translated into English and calendared. There are, however, some memoranda written in English and these have been transcribed in the form in which they have been written.

For convenience of reference each entry has been numbered in consecutive sequence and this is the number given in the index. Some of the entries are not in strict chronological order and have been added later in a different hand.

Editorial comments and the modern version of place names are contained within square brackets. Because of the many different forms used, the identification of place names has been extremely difficult and in many instances quite impossible. Names of persons have presented even more problems than the names of places. In preparing the index it has been difficult to decide at what point variations in spelling develop into distinct names.

INTRODUCTION

Bristol possesses an almost complete set of Apprentice Books from 1532, and this volume provides a calendar of the third and final part of the first Bristol Apprentice Book 1532–1565, which is now in the Bristol Record Office (B.R.O. 04352). The first part of the Apprentice Book, covering the years 1532–1542 was edited by Denzil Hollis and published by the Bristol Record Society, Volume XIV, 1948. The second part, covering the years 1542–1552 was edited by Elizabeth Ralph and Nora M. Hardwick and published by the Bristol Record Society, Volume XXXI, 1980.

The Introduction to Volume XIV contains a detailed account of the Apprentice Book and of the system of apprenticeship in Bristol, during the sixteenth century based on numerous contemporary records. The Introduction to Vol. XXXI also provides information on the way in which apprenticeships were arranged and enrolled by the Town Clerk of Bristol. This shows that a careful method of recording indentures had already been developed in Bristol for many years before the Statute of Artificers and Apprentices or Statute of Labour (5 Eliz. c. 4: Statutes of the Realm, iv, 414) and provided a national scheme for binding apprentices to crafts or husbandry under the supervision of Justices of the Peace or of Mayors and chief officers of cities, boroughs or corporate towns. Details of the system of apprenticeship in Bristol and a description of the format and contents of the first Bristol Apprentice Book and of its importance as a source for many aspects of Bristol history during the sixteenth century will be found in the Introductions to Vols. XIV and XXXI.
