- Give insight into industries that interest them
- Give insight into the transition between University and the working world

This document provides more information about the project. If after reading this document you have further questions, please get in touch.

Who are our Mentees? - Widening Participation

Students that are eligible for Bristol Mentors are undergraduates from a range of different backgrounds. They are students meeting University widening participation criteria that may have encountered a variety of educational or environmental challenges in gaining entry to Bristol and during their studies.

Students who meet widening participation criteria are those who are typically under-represented in Higher Education, including Black, Asian and Minority Ethnic (BAME) students, mature students, students from postcode areas with low progression to higher education, disabled students, and students from aspiring schools.

The Partnership

- You should expect the mentoring partnership to last from September – June.
- Mentors and mentees are expected to work together regularly for the duration of the programme.
- Mentors and mentees should expect to work together for 1-2 hours per month as a recommended minimum.
- Meetings can take place in person, over the phone or using video call (e.g. Skype, FaceTime) and should always follow Government guidance with regards to social distancing.

- Where possible, we encourage mentors to arrange practical opportunities for mentees to gain insight, for example: work-place visits, shadowing, or opportunities to meet other professionals working in your industry. This may also be done online, for example by shadowing a team meeting or meeting colleagues over zoom.
- We do not consider emails as interactions, though we do expect you will engage with your mentee via email to check-in and to arrange contact.
- The Bristol Mentors partnership will end at the end of the year, there will be check in points throughout the year to check how the partnerships are going. Bristol Mentors and the University of Bristol will not be responsible for the relationship with your mentee after the end of the formal year-long partnership.

Meetings

We encourage mentors and mentees to meet in person when possible or if not via video calls. Where necessary, travel expenses can be requested to support students and mentors travelling to meet one another. You can contact the Bristol Mentors team for more information on travel expenses.

Confidentiality & Safeguarding

As part of the mentoring relationship, you are likely to discuss personal details in relation to your work and career. Similarly, your mentee may talk to you about their experiences. Therefore, the content of your conversations should remain confidential. You should discuss confidentiality at the outset of the relationship and revisit this agreement when necessary.

Student Welfare

If at any point you have concerns about the mentoring relationship, or about the safety and welfare of your mentee or others you should discuss this with the Bristol Mentors team.

Your role as a mentor is to provide professional support and guidance. If you believe your mentee might benefit from extra pastoral or wellbeing support, please contact the Bristol Mentors team or University staff, and we will be able to signpost the appropriate University services. Bristol Mentors has the support of the Student Wellbeing Service, and the University of Bristol is investing significantly and providing resources to support students' wellbeing. We will give more information on this in the training for mentors, before matching takes place.

Next steps

If you would like to become a mentor please complete the application form. We will then be in touch to let you know if you are suitable for this volunteering opportunity. During the summer each year we match students and mentors depending on the student's career interest. There is potential for mentors to be matched some years and not others due to this. If unmatched there are several other opportunities throughout the year to support the programme and students. Once selected to be a mentor we will support you with more training and resources and then your mentee contact.
