

Assessment for a specific learning difficulty (e.g., dyslexia, dyspraxia)

How much does an assessment cost?

The cost of assessment varies but may range between approximately £390 and £515. However, the assessment you book may cost more or less than this. The assessor will confirm a price when you book and you will usually be asked to pay for the assessment in advance. You can choose to book with an assessment centre (such as Bristol Dyslexia Centre; see below) or with a specialist teacher or with a chartered/practitioner psychologist.

Contact details for booking an assessment are listed below.

Disability Services does not recommend any particular assessment centre or individual assessor -- however, we can provide this list of known practitioners who appear on relevant lists of qualified assessors.

What happens after the assessment?

You will be sent a copy of your report and, if you request it from your assessor, a copy may also be sent to Disability Services.

When we receive your report, if you have given consent to share this information, a Disability Adviser will look at your report to see if the evidence is sufficient for us to produce a Disability Support Summary (DSS) for you. You can learn more about DSSs here: <http://www.bristol.ac.uk/disability-services/study-support/sdc/dss/>. If you have not given consent, we will send you a consent form to complete. We will also give you information about the ways you can be supported at University and how any study support can be funded.

If you have not agreed for your assessor to send us a copy of your report, we will not know the outcome of your assessment. This means that you must contact Disability Services if you want to discuss the outcome of your assessment or need to have study or examination support put in place.

If, at any stage, you have questions or concerns, please do not hesitate to contact Disability Services. Our contact details are given below.

What if I cannot pay for the assessment?

If paying for a diagnostic assessment will put you in financial hardship, you can book onto one of our Dyslexia Workshops to learn about funding to help you pay. All our workshop dates can be found here: <http://www.bristol.ac.uk/disability-services/study-support/workshops/>. Note that, in general terms, if your family income is greater than £42,875, it is unlikely that you will receive any assistance.
